FRESH CAPE FLOWERS

DELIVERED IN THE UNITED KINGDOM

THE BEAUTIFUL "CHINKERICHEE" from SOUTH AFRICA.

It is perhaps not generally known that this is one of the most beautiful and at the same time one of the most lasting flowers that can be used for table decoration.

Frequently it has been reported that flowers from the Cape, after three weeks on the voyage in a closed box, have been kept in a vase in the ordinary way for no less than three months before being finally discarded.

The flowers are packed in the bud stage and, if suitably stored on the boat, will arrive in England just ready to open up. They are then brought to the light and will open out and bloom quite naturally, the buds opening in succession from the lowest upwards to the tip, and making a delightful show for six weeks to three months on end.

In this the "Chinkerichee" is unique, for no other flower, that is not of the "Everlasting" type, can rival it for duration. The "Chinkerichee" has none of the stiff and dry appearance of the Helichrysum or Cape Everlasting which, though very beautiful and distinctly suitable for other purposes, is quite out of place in a vase for indoor decoration.

There are two varieties of "Chinkerichee" that can be shipped successfully. They are very similar in appearance but have certain distinctive characters in regard to habit.

What is generally known as the "Cape" variety is found on the Cape Peninsula and in the immediately surrounding country. This variety is often ready for shipment as early as the latter end of September and continues throughout October. Both varieties are white, but this has a darker centre and is the one from which our photograph was taken.

The other is known as the "Darling" variety because it comes from a district of that name some 80 miles from Cape Town. The flower has a yellowish centre and is at least a month later in flowering, seldom being available much before the beginning of November. It usually continues for rather more than a month and shipments can frequently be made as late as the 8th or 10th of December.

All the dates given above are dependent upon and liable to alter somewhat according to seasonal variations.

Of the two varieties the "Cape" is the more easily cultivated and bulbs sent from South Africa should thrive quite well in Great Britain, especially in the South of England. They like a more or less sandy soil but will live in heavier soils also and can stand conditions that might almost be described as swampy. This variety increases rapidly in cultivation—at least it does so in South Africa.

The bulbs of the "Darling" variety are very much larger than those of the "Cape" variety and while the latter will give good blooms from bulbs that are really quite small, the "Darling" variety is only at its best from larger bulbs. Anything from pigeon egg size upwards is good for this variety and under cultivation they frequently increase to the dimensions of a large hen's egg. In spite of this, however, the variety does not increase very freely under cultivation but can be reproduced very successfully from seed, the seedling bulbs flowering about the third season.

While it is quite possible to send the "Chinkerichee" Flowers by parcels post in the ordinary mail, we have found that when sent in that way a certain percentage of the packages arrive in an unaccountably bad condition while the majority, sent at the same time, may reach destination without suffering in the least. It seems to us that this must be due to varying conditions in the stowage of the mails.

In consequence of this uncertainty we have made arrangements to forward in cool storage. The flowers will be consigned to our agents in Southampton ready packed in boxes suitable for posting to final destination. When sent in this way we can guarantee delivery in good condition. We will replace free if the contrary happens.

Price: Flowers, 7/6 per box of approximately 100 blooms (double boxes 12/6), delivered free to any address in the United Kingdom. Shipments principally during October and November.

For American and Continental addresses the price is 10/- per box (double boxes 17/6), but delivery cannot be guaranteed owing to the uncertainty of the postal service and import regulations.

Bulbs—January to March—"Cape" variety, 1/6 per dozen, 7/6 per 100; "Darling" variety, 3/6 per dozen, 27/6 per 100. Post free to any address in the United Kingdom.

Nothing could be more acceptable to your best friend than a box of these flowers sent all the way from South Africa—and at such a trifling cost to you!

Send us your order now and tell us approximately the date of shipment you would prefer. We can not guarantee an exact date because we may not be able to ship every week, but we will send as near the date of your choice as possible.

Payment from overseas can be sent in the shape of British Postal Order or Cheque on a London Bank. Cheques on Provincial Banks are also acceptable if the customary exchange on London is added.

Please fill in clearly the particulars required on the order form overleaf and post, with remittance, to our Rosebank address.

On arrival cut off the ends of the stems—about half an inch—so as to make a fresh wound through which they can draw moisture.

Arrange the flowers immediately in vases filled with lukewarm water and place them in the light of an ordinary room.

If the flowers have arrived in good condition they will open out beautifully and can be kept in the vases for many weeks.

APPRECIATIONS.

Cape Town, March, 1936.—The Chinkerichees sent to my friends in Edinburgh arrived in beautiful order. The blooms were lovely and lasted nearly three months. They were greatly admired.

Edinburgh, December 5, 1936.—The Chinkerichees received yesterday came in splendid condition, I think the best I have ever got; they were beautifully packed and had not moved in the box.

London, November 24, 1935.—I should like to tell you that the Chinkerichee you sent me arrived in perfect condition. Such beautiful specimens, and so different to the ones on sale in the London shops.

Holland Park, W.11, December 16, 1935.—I have received your double box of Chinkerichees, a little earlier than expected, and I am sure you will be pleased to hear they are in better form and prettier than ever before.

Walsall (Eng.), December 19, 1935.—The Chinkerichees sent by you as per order from my son in Johannesburg are in perfect condition (December 18, 1935). They are the nicest we have had from Cape Town yet. I am very pleased with them.

January 8, 1936.—The box of Chinkerichee arrived in splendid condition and the flower has developed beautifully. Our memories of your gardens are still fresh.
